

Personal Log #1

We've always been a synced team, we usually have great ideas that combine well with each other. It's really fun and smooth to work with Mariem in any kind of project.

It was kind of difficult due to scheduling issues, as we don't have the same schedule for most of the days, yet, we got to work for a while in person and we got to do the majority of the ideas we wanted to use and achieve. The rest of the work was done by each other from afar, but still we managed to achieve something really close to the ambitious idea we had.

We've been a really good team and I really look forward to the final result of this website, as I think we still have many ideas to use and still have fun experiencing this code and keep learning from it. :)

Personal Log #2

We had some challenges trying to separate everything between ejs files and the whole code we had in html. Even adapting the css was difficult for us as sometimes we lost track of what worked and what didn't.

It was challenging and getting to some agreements on what we should do was difficult. Even Though we had some difficulties we managed to render an approximate version of the final project we wanted to deliver. We still have many things to work on and we hope we'll get there.

Personal Log #3

Working with Mariem has been an enjoyable experience as usual, it's not the first time we have worked together on a project, especially coding. We had some trouble managing tasks as Mariem had some trouble getting to understand React, but after some sessions we managed to work on the specialized website.

We still had some issues we couldn't tackle down, like some of the buttons that are out of place, or even the accordions that somehow don't display the name of the career entirely. Even with those little details we managed to deliver a well functional website, based on the opinions and feedback received from our classmates.
